The client will play as big or small a role as they want in the design process.

First we will need to discuss the details of the mural and then I will need to physically see the location and measure to determine what materials and equipment I will need. Then I will need to spend time researching and designing the mural based on client needs. Visiting my website at www.jillnahrstedt.com to look through my work should help you narrow down some ideas.

Once the design is provided the client will have the opportunity to request changes one time followed by the fee of $45/hr for further changes. I want you to LOVE your mural when we are all done but I also have to pay for childcare while I tweak the design for you. Upon choosing the final design the client will sign a contract for the hand painted work.

This chart is provided so that you may be able to have an idea of what the mural will cost. Please feel free to contact me with any questions you have! I want this to be a pleasant experience you will always treasure.
